Background

Nattavut is an experienced consultant and coach who partners with world-leading assessment and leadership development providers to enhance human potential. Prior to becoming a consultant and coach, Nattavut was an investment banker and then joined Accenture as a senior consultant. He also worked with Maersk, where his last position was COO for Thailand. He also worked as an executive with BMW Group. His last executive position was the Deputy Managing Director and Head of Human Capital Consulting for Mercer (Thailand) where he successfully grew businesses and built the organization.

Nattavut travels across Asia Pacific and Australia to facilitate executive workshops with many Fortune 500 companies. With his experience as an executive from leading organizations and running his own organizations, Nattavut provides insights on business practices and organization priorities with a unique blend of consultancy, development, assessment, and coaching. He is also a faculty member for an MBA program and an advisor to an association under the Stock Exchange of Thailand.
